Not always right…

"You learn nothing from life if you think you're right all the time."

Wrap your talking gear around this…

- Do you know someone online or offline who always thinks they're right?
- How do you feel about that person and what words would you use to describe them?
- Is it worth getting into a big argument with that person online? Why or why not?
- Have you ever thought that you were 100% right and then found out that you weren't? If it's happened to you, what helped you to learn that you weren't right? What doesn't help in these sorts of situations?
- What helps you to listen carefully and respectfully to others so that you can learn from them and so that they can learn from you?

Use these discussion starters as a jumping off position to explore the saying. Always try and come up with some actions that would help everyone in the discussion to learn and grow. Be curious, have fun and be prepared to change the way you think – and behave!
