Dealing with dodgy friend requests…

"Not every friend request is a friend request.
Some are surveillance cameras."

Wrap your talking gear around this…

- What do you think this saying means?
- Do some people send friend requests online NOT because they want to be your friend, but for other reasons? What are those reasons?
- Surveillance cameras capture footage of what's happening in an area. Could it be dangerous to let someone see what's going on in your life – who your friends are and where you go? Why?
- What are some things you can do to check out friend requests to make sure it really is a friend and not someone dodgy?
- Is blocking and deleting the best way to manage a dodgy friend request or should you send them a message?

Use these discussion starters as a jumping off position to explore the saying. Always try and come up with some actions that would help everyone in the discussion to learn and grow. Be curious, have fun and be prepared to change the way you think – and behave!
